Morphiomania.

It is full time that the serious danger of indulging in chloral, morphia, and other such drugs should be understood. To a woman of refinement these methods of obtaining the desired immunity from self are repulsive. She resorts to them reluctantly and by slow degrees. There was till recently, no other way, but now the downward path is made very easy. First the inventor of chloral smoothed the way, unconsciously but surely. A woman who would have shuddered with genuine horror at the idea of drinking too much wine, thinks little of taking repeated doses of chloral. Women think so much of the look of a thing. A brandy bottle on their dressing table would be too horrible. But the small, innocent-looking little phial so constantly in demand?—that is thought nothing of. And yet the brandy bottle may be the safer of the two. For the very reason that it represents a more degraded form of vice, it is safer than the small flask which the chemist sends in so daintily wrapped in white paper, sealed with wax, and labelled "Poison." A thousand womanly instincts and feminine fears drag her back from the former. The physician whom she trusts and all her dearest friends urge her toward the latter.

But chloral is an old story now. We see a woman lolling languidly in her carriage, in her box at the opera, or even at her own table, with a filmy, dazed look in her eyes, an absent manner, and a half-unconscious way of listening and replying to those about her. We at once account for it: "Chloral." We see a man who was once the incarnation of life and energy, brisk in business, intellectual, cultivated. We see him dulled, nerveless, his brighter self effaced, his intellect flickering like a dying light, his business faculties dwindling, slovenly in his mind as well as person, inaccurate in statements, and careless as to linen; and we say: "Chloral." It has become an accepted fact, a recognized doom for a certain percentage of our acquaintance. It is an old story. Something fresh was demanded, and in response to the demand a new vice was invented.

When physicians discovered that pain could be subdued by inserting under the skin a small pointed instrument provided with a tube containing morphia, they little thought that they were paving the way for a new vice. Yet so it was. There are, in our merry England beings who are as wholly under the domination of morphia as ever was Chinese under that of opium. Women have yielded by degrees to its fatal fascination, until at last they prick the skin a dozen times a day with the tiny syringe that has such terrible results. The operation is almost painless; the immediate effects pleasant. A delicious languor supervenes. Happy thoughts and bright imaginings fill the mind. Some see beautiful visions, others feel only a pervading sensation of comfort and well-being. On a few the effect of morphia is to excite to some intellectual effort, if effort that can be called which is pure delight, a glorious feeling of untrammelled power, of uncrippled exercise of the highest faculties. It is as though the mind had suddenly developed wings. But at the very height of the enchantment the influence of morphia begins to subside. The glory fades. The wings trail, and the feet that are their sorry substitute become weighted as with lead. As with the workers, so with the dreamers. The visions are obscured. The sensation of comfort gives place to one of discomfort, irritation, even pain. The mental vision that had just now looked through a rosy mist sees all things as through a crape veil or a November fog. Can it be wondered at that the dose is renewed.

that the poison is absorbed again and again, that the intervals become shorter and shorter between the reign of the potent drug?

And the end? The punishment is terrible indeed. By degrees the mind becomes darkened. Hideous hallucinations seize upon it. Self-control is lost. Imbecility overtakes the weak. Madness threatens the strong.

These are the personal consequences. There are others to be bequeathed to sons and daughters and to later generations. These can be guessed at. The new vice has not reigned sufficiently long for the world to have seen them exemplified, but a dark array of possibilities suggests itself, but too readily. The heritage of insanity, of inebriety, of imbecility, will in the future be traced back to those tiny tubes which hold but a drop or two, and to which men once looked as to a blessed means of relieving pain, forgetting that blessings and curses go hand in hand in a crooked world. Dipsomania has now a powerful rival, speedier in its results than its own revolting process and eventually as degrading. The name of the later born sister fiend is Morphiomania. —London Truth.

A Sensible Girl.

"I'll tell you what," said a New York girl the other day, while examining a printed curriculum, and trying to make up her mind what study she would take up next, "I'll tell you what I would like to study—I would like to study medicine. I don't mean that I'd like to be a physician and practice, but only to know what to do at home if any body is sick, or anything happens. I am sure it would be more useful to me than"—and she turned to the prescribed course of study—"than spherical trigonometry and navigation. What is the use of me studying navigation. But we cannot run for the doctor every time anybody sneezes or coughs, and I would like to know what to do for any one who is a little sick."

This New York girl is sensible, and has made a wise choice. Perhaps she will never be smart enough to work out an intricate problem in algebra, and maybe she will never know the technical names of all the bones in her body, but if her baby brother, while left in her charge, should burn his hand, or be suddenly seized with croup, she will know what is the best thing to do for him while waiting for the doctor to come. And when she is a wife and mother she will meet calmly and intelligently the accidents and illnesses which are inevitable in every family.

She Fetched Him.

Women sometimes have great presence of mind. A jailor's wife saw that a prisoner had got between her husband and the unlocked door and was going for it like a Scotch terrier for a rat hole. She knew she hadn't the strength to seize and hold him, and besides he had a knife, so she didn't try. But she stepped into a side corridor near the head of a flight of stairs the prisoner had got to descend, yanked off her hoopskirt, and, as he passed, flung it before him. The way he turned handsprings and somersaults down those stairs was a caution to cats, and his frantic struggles after he reached the bottom would have attracted folks from a dog fight. When the jailor came up, the fellow had got himself so entangled that he was absolutely helpless, was doubled up in terribly uncomfortable ways and was choking to death, and so completely wound up that the jailor had to cut him out with a hatchet, and it took half a yard of court plaster and a pint of arnica to make him at all comfortable. —Boston Post.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEB. 8, 1882.

The anti-polygamy bill passed the House of Representatives on Monday. As it will probably pass the Senate and become a law, it settles the case of Mr. Cannon the delegate from Utah.

GEN. BRADY, of Star Route notoriety, now admits the truth of the statement that he has sold his interest the Washington National Republican and that the paper has passed under the control of a syndicate of President Arthur's friends.

Congressman Butterworth of Ohio, has introduced in the House resolutions of the Sailors' and Soldiers' Memorial Association of Cincinnati, praying for the enactment of a law giving to each soldier and sailor who served in the late war a land warrant for 160 acres, without conditions as to settlement. General Young introduced a bill in accordance with such resolutions.

Geo C. BATES, Ex-United States District Attorney of Utah, and who for several years acted as the attorney and counselor for the Mormon church of the Territory, thinks that the Edmunds Bill will put an end to polygamy. He says, in the Denver Tribune, that the young men and women of Utah are opposed to plural marriages and will be heartily glad to see the practice wiped out.

A special despatch to the Courier-Journal from Washington, says: J. D. White, of Kentucky, and, by the way, a member of congress, is truly a great man. He is now laboring to have a female government employee turned out of place in order to make room for a sister of his. The employee that he wants turned out is accredited to Kentucky on the official rolls. At a recent dinner at which President Arthur was present, he is reported to have said that of the members of congress, who hunt for places under the government, John D. has given him the most trouble, and that he was inclined to give John D. a large slice of cold shoulder.

An examination of the Auditor's report for the fiscal year ending October 10, 1881, shows that 1,063 idiots were supported by the state that year. Of this number 93 belonged to Knox county, 31 to Whitley, 30 each to Wayne and Jefferson, 29 to Polaski, 25 to Casey, 24 to Clay and 22 to Ohio county, Mason county has 12 of this class of persons within her limits. There are but seven counties in the state that report no idiots. These are Ballard, Carroll, Crittenden, Fayette, Fulton, McLean and Union.

Boone, Boyd, Carter, Larue, Menifee, Spencer and Woodford each report but one.

The allowance to an idiot cannot exceed $75 in any one year. The amount paid out to this class of persons by the state, for the fiscal year ending October 10, 1881, according to the Auditor's report, is $77,805.27.

DIED

Sunday, February 5th, 1882, at his home in Wilson Bottom, Lewis county, Ky., aged seventy five years, Mr. JAMES L. WILSON, father of Mrs. Dr. Martin, of this city.

A good friend in Lewis county sends us the following encouraging words:

The BULLETIN is acknowledged to be the best weekly medium for spay news coming into the State of Lewis. Reading the daily gives five days extra labor, but the advantage derived is that it makes the weekly more readable. The enterprise is appreciated and encouraged by your patrons in this county.

Arrival of the Troops.

The troops composing the Third Battalion of the Kentucky State Guards, Major Allen commanding, who have been on duty at Catlettsburg during the trials of Wm. Neal and Ellis Craft, for murder, arrived in Maysville this morning about seven o'clock by the steamer Potomac on the way to their respective homes. They had in charge Neal, Ellis and Craft, who are to be confined in the jail at Lexington until the day fixed for the execution of the former two. The prisoners, heavily manacled were taken to the jail and there kept until the departure of the guards at noon for Lexington. The troops after being entertained at the European Hotel held dress parade at half past nine o'clock which attracted a large crowd of admiring citizens. They are a fine looking body of men, are well drilled and under admirable discipline. During their stay at Catlettsburg, we are reliably informed, there was no serious misconduct of any kind on the part of the Guards and nothing transpired at any time to their discredit. The compliments paid them by Judge Brown from the bench, when he thanked them for their gentlemanly conduct and soldierly deportment, is the official recognition of this. The Lexington troops will have a public reception at the Phoenix Hotel this evening on their arrival at home.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heat the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head, tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

FILES! FILES! FILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lollions instruments and electricities do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment: I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

Broken Arm.

Hodge Banks, colored, porter at the European Hotel, and Sant Green, also colored, were both tried before the mayor Tuesday, for committing a breach of the peace. They got into a dispute the night before, over a quarter of a dollar which Green claimed was due him for hauling a trunk from the wharfbat to Heiser's Hotel. A fight ensued in which dray-pins were used by both parties. Green came out "second best," with a broken arm.
The trial resulted in Bank's acquittal and Green being fined $3 and costs.

During the progress of the trial of Ellis Craft at Catlettsburg, the following letter was received by B. F. Sweet, one of the jurors and was handed by him to Judge Brown. It has never been printed in any of the reports of the trial.

ASHLAND, January 31st.
My dear friend:
This case against those boys is all fraud. Be careful with your decision. The people here are seeing into it and are changing their minds.
I have good authority that the women who saw about that meeting at the cemetery were bought by this detective. He is after the reward and nothing else. Public opinion in this town is fast changing in favor of the prisoners.
God knows a man who is innocent, ought not to suffer for this act. Keep this to yourself.
You and I are good friends and the reason I write is because I think I am doing right.
From what I know it is a put-up job.
The first time I see you in town I will have a talk with you about it. A. R. THOMPSON.

SULLIVAN-RYAN.

Particulars of the Prize Fight at Mississippi City, Miss.

MISSISSIPPI CITY, Miss., February 7, 1882.
—Trains from New Orleans, with people to witness the fight between Ryan and Sullivan, arrived about 11 o'clock. The crowd consisted of sporting men from all parts of the country and many prominent ent citizens of New Orleans. A number of newspaper correspondents, representing the prominent papers of the North and West, were also in attendance.

Sullivan arrived on the ground at 10:30 and took a room at the hotel opposite Ryan within a hundred feet of the ring, which was pitched in front of Barnes' Hotel, in a grove of live oaks.

Sullivan cast his cap into the ring at 11:45
by the Judges' time amidst great enthusiasm.

One hundred to eighty was accepted on Sullivan.

Sullivan was seconded by Billy Madden,
Joe Goss, and Arthur Chambers. Ryan entered the ring at 11:57 amidst enthusiastic cheers, accompanied by Tom Kelly and Johnny Roach. Ryan won the choice of the corners, and took the southwest corner.
Sullivan has the sun in his face. The men are ready to commence business, but there is a difficulty about the referee. Both parties agreed on Jas. D. Huston, of New Orleans, who refused to act. Chas. Bush also refused.

Ryan just bet Sullivan $1,000 which was promptly accepted.

The fight commenced at one o'clock.

First Round—And first knock-down for Sullivan.

Second Round—After a considerable struggle both men clinched; Sullivan being thrown by Ryan; blood for Sullivan.

Third Round—This round ended in Ryan being knocked down by Sullivan.

Fourth Round—Sullivan knocked down in Ryan's corner.

Fifth Round—After clinching Sullivan was thrown by Ryan.

Sixth Round—Ryan was fairly knocked down by Sullivan.

Seventh Round—After sharp fighting, both being severely punished, they fell together.

Eighth Round—Ryan was knocked out of time by Sullivan.

In the ninth round Ryan failed to come to time and the fight was declared in favor of Sullivan.

Time of fight, twenty-six minutes.

Somnambulist's Slipper.

In a small village across the way resides a well-known clergyman and his family. One of his sons, who is just approaching manhood, has been in the habit since infancy of walking in his sleep. Every effort has been made to break him of his 'somnambulist' tendencies, but without avail. A short time ago it was decided by the head of the house that the somnambulist should occupy the same couch with his elder brother, and the latter was instructed, in case the boy indulged in any of his former antics, to administer severe punishment, in the shape of a forcible application of the sole of a slipper. The elder son promised to carry out his instructions. One night the father imagined he heard sounds of disturbance in the chicken yard at the rear of the house, and, fearing that his hen-roost might be despoiled, entered the room where the boys were sleeping, and, opening the window, peered out into the darkness to ascertain whether his apprehensions were correct. The elder son thought the figure at the window was that of his brother, and forgetting, in his zeal, to ascertain if his bedfellow was quietly reposing or not, leaped from his couch, seized the ever-ready slipper, and administered a severe castigation upon the party in undress at the window. Before the astonished father could turn he had received some four or five heavy and stinging blows, and was so surprised and astonished that for a few moments he could hardly speak a word. The son, when he realized the situation, was almost paralyzed, and the scene was ridiculous in the extreme. When the circumstances were explained, however, the clergyman fully appreciated the joke.—San Francisco Alta.

Indian Girl Graduates.

A correspondent of the New York Herald, writing from the Crow Creek Agency, says:

"While I was galloping back to the fort in company with Dr. Bergan, the Post Surgeon, we came upon a handsome Indian girl, who was sauntering along the road-side. She proved to be Ziwin, or Yellow Woman, one of the Hampton College graduates.

"Attired in a fashionably-cut polonaise, jaunty bonnet, and a pair of high-heeled French shoes, as she drew back and modestly shaded her eyes with a tiny-gloved hand, Ziwin seemed the strongest advocate of education that could have been sent among the susceptible braves of Crow Creek.

"She is the daughter of Don't-Know-How, an Indian storekeeper, who displays over his door the sign of 'D. K. Howe.' When little Ziwin was sent to the college at Hampton Roads her father's house appeared, in comparison with the surrounding tepees, to be a palatial mansion.

"The impression was not effaced even by contact with Eastern luxury during her college life, and last week the girl looked forward with great pleasure to the grand reception which her father had arranged for her return. But when she walked into the rude hut, and felt how completely education had isolated her savage surroundings, the poor girl burst into tears.

"That night she slept in the arms of her sister, and both girls cried till morning, one because she was civilized and the other because she was not. The next morning Ziwin turned everything upside down and began a general house cleaning. Her father appeared at the Agency an hour later with a melancholy countenance, and it is a question as to how long he can stand the regime of cleanliness which has been inaugurated.

"After a few words with the girl we passed on, and by a piece of good fortune overtook one of the Yale College graduates. He was the pink of stylish perfection, and would have attracted attention even in the East. He said he was surprised to find how education had altered his ideas regarding the Sioux, but said his people were all anxious for civilization, and when we parted he apologized for having left his visiting cards at home."

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers
And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candied, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without reloading.

For cool storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, adding, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Filler complete. 65 Cents.
Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Filler complete. 55 Cents.
Cardboard Filler for refilling 20 Cents.
15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases.
Batchelder's Egg Tester, 1 string 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season. Price $3.00.

By special arrangements made by the manufacturers of this case most Railroads will receive them as fourth class freight.

The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, with out mailing, with full directions for setting up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,
